

COMGEOG Student Paper Competition

The Communication Geography Specialty Group will be awarding three paper prizes to student participants at the 2010 AAG meeting, in Washington DC. There is a $100 first prize supported by Stanley Brunn, as well as two $50 runners-up supported directly by the specialty group. To qualify for consideration, papers must address geographical aspects of communication or communicational aspects of geography and must be sole-authored by currently-enrolled undergraduate or graduate students and must be submitted in complete form by March 26.

Papers will be judged by a panel of recognized geographers with expertise in various aspects of communication geography. They will be judged on the basis of appropriateness to the subject of communication geography, clarity, originality and potential for publication. Formatting should be suitable for an intended journal such as the Annals of the AAG, Geographical Review, Professional Geographer, Environment and Planning D, Political Geography, or another refereed journal. Length must be between 5,000 and 10,000 words. Submit as a pdf file or as a Word document. If using Word, figures should be separate files (please do not embed images and do not exceed 1 megabyte per image). The author's name and contact information should be on a cover page that can be removed, and must not be indicated in the body of the paper, in order to facilitate the review process. Winners will be announced at the COMGEOG specialty group meeting, Friday April 16, 8:00 pm.
